For Dyspepsia, Constipation, Sick Headache, Chronic Diarrhea, Indigestion, Impurity of the Blood, Fever and Chills, Malaria, and All Diseases Caused by Derangement of Liver, Bowels and Kidneys.

SYMPTOMS OF A DISEASED LIVER.
The liver is the largest of our internal organs, and is situated in the right upper corner of the abdomen. It is the seat of the bile, which is secreted by the liver and flows into the gall bladder. The bile is then secreted into the small intestine, where it is used for the digestion of food. If the liver is diseased, the bile is not secreted properly, and the result is dyspepsia, constipation, sick headache, chronic diarrhea, indigestion, impurity of the blood, fever and chills, malaria, and all diseases caused by derangement of liver, bowels and kidneys.

It should be used by all persons, old and young, whenever any of the above symptoms appear.

Persons Travelling or Living in Unhealthy Localities. By taking a dose occasionally of Simmons' Liver Regulator, they can avoid all the evils of malarial fevers, biliousness, indigestion, and all the other diseases which are caused by an impure blood.

Time and Doctors' Bills will be saved by always keeping the Regulator.
For whatever the ailment may be, a thoroughly safe, purgative, alterative, and blood purifier, is out of place. The remedy is harmless and does not interfere with business or pleasure.

IT IS PURELY VEGETABLE.
And has no effect on the system, except to cleanse the blood, and to give it a healthy tone.

A Governor's Testimony.
Simon Liver Regulator has been used in my family for some time, and I am satisfied it is a valuable medicine for the cure of all the above named diseases.

Dr. J. C. H. Jones, of Hartford, Ky., writes:
"I have used many remedies for Dyspepsia, Liver Affection and Indigestion, but never found anything to benefit me so much as Simmons' Liver Regulator. It has cured me of all my troubles, and I feel as well as ever."

Dr. W. M. Mason, of Hartford, Ky., writes:

Beautiful Hands.

In the wonderful calm where dreamland lies,
I saw two pilgrims of mortal frame,
Knock at the door of Paradise.
Where an angel to the summons came.

There the crystal portal clear as air,
The wanderer surveyed the hands below,
One beautiful, tender soft and fair,
One beautiful as the drifted snow.

But the other that close beside it lay
Was marred with lines rough and brown,
It seemed as if it would steal away
From the gleam of the angel's eye, shut down.

Then a whisper ope'd in the portal bright,
And the angel a diamond spear thrust out,
That touched the hands with a point of light.

A wonderful transformation wrought,
The delicate hand was leavened with youth,
Selfishness sped its fatness away,
Which the angel beheld with a point of youth.

But the other at touch of the magic spear,
Shook a wondrous beauty unseen before,
Which the angel beheld with a point of youth.

Beautiful hands ope the crystal door,
In charity's every kind device,
Have clothed with beauty earth's poorest soil,
And made all men as angels here.

The Irish Exile's Lament.

Come to me, darling, I'm lonely without thee,
Daytime and night time I'm thinking about thee,
Nights and days, I'm thinking about thee,
Nights and days, I'm thinking about thee.

Unwillingly the waking that comes to fold thee,
Come to me, dearest, my sorrows to lighten,
Come in thy beauty to dress and to brighten,
Come in thy beauty to dress and to brighten.

Swallowing will not round the desolate ruin,
Telling of sorrows and its sorrows, my dear,
And thoughts of thy love with its sorrows, my dear,
And thoughts of thy love with its sorrows, my dear.

Archery my heart with a promise of pleasure,
Oh, sorrowing of my spirit, oh, May of my heart,
Shine out on my soul till it begeth and blossom,
Shine out on my soul till it begeth and blossom.

The past of my life has a rose root within it,
And thy fondness alone, to the sunshine can win it,
Figures that move like a song through the evening,
Figures that move like a song through the evening.

Features lit up by a reflex of heaven,
Eyes like the stars of a poor Irish boy, my dear,
When shadows and sunshine are chasing each other,
When shadows and sunshine are chasing each other.

Smiles coming seldom but childlike and simple,
Opening their eyes from the heart of a dream,
Oh, thanks to the Savior that even thy seeming,
Oh, thanks to the Savior that even thy seeming.

Is like the exile to brighten his dreaming,
You have been glad when you knew I was glad,
Dear, are you sad now, to know I am sad,
Dear, are you sad now, to know I am sad.

Our hearts ever answer in time and in rhyme,
Associate to octave and rhyme into rhyme,
Love, love, love, love, love, love, love, love,
Love, love, love, love, love, love, love, love.

Learned to sleep, but your tears will be flowing,
You cannot smile but my cheek will be glowing,
I would not die without you at my side, love,
I would not die without you at my side, love.

You will not linger when I shall have died,
Come to me, dearest, and I die of my sorrow,
Rise in my gloom like the sun of tomorrow,
Rise in my gloom like the sun of tomorrow.

Strong, swift, and kind are the words which I speak, love,
With a song on your lips and a smile on your cheek, love,
Come to my heart in your absence as weary home,
Come to my heart in your absence as weary home.

Come to my heart in your absence as weary home,
Come to my heart in your absence as weary home,
Come to my heart in your absence as weary home,
Come to my heart in your absence as weary home.

Come to my heart in your absence as weary home,
Come to my heart in your absence as weary home,
Come to my heart in your absence as weary home,
Come to my heart in your absence as weary home.

Come to my heart in your absence as weary home,
Come to my heart in your absence as weary home,
Come to my heart in your absence as weary home,
Come to my heart in your absence as weary home.

Come to my heart in your absence as weary home,
Come to my heart in your absence as weary home,

THE HERALD.

WEDNESDAY, DEC. 13, 1882.

LONDON ENGLAND was visited by a $15,000,000 fire last Thursday.

JAY HAYCRAFT was shot in Litchfield a few days since by a deputy marshal. At last accounts he was still alive, but his recovery was thought to be doubtful.

Mrs. NANCY MOORE, of Morganfield, Union county, died last Thursday at the advanced age of ninety-five years. She was a sister of Dr. C. C. Graham, of Louisville, who is in his 99th year. The family is very long lived.

The cold in the northwest last week was terrible. Hundreds of people were frozen and travel stopped. Water froze in locomotive tanks and trains were forced to stop on the road in many places. Navigation has been closed on account of ice since November 30.

The Southern cities are complaining to Congress of the lack of fast-mail facilities and the probability are that that body will be forced to pass bills on the Baltimore & Ohio, Louisville & Nashville and Chesapeake & Ohio and Chesapeake, Ohio & South Western.

The Government only allowed Dr. Bliss $5,000 for his services upon the President. Bliss demanded $25,000 and refuses to accept the amount tendered, alleging that his yearly income would justify a much larger amount. It is said that he will sue Garfield's estate for his services.

GOVERNOR BLACKBURN seems to have a follower in Governor Stephens, of Georgia, who is said to have pardoned 25 criminals in the short time he has been Governor, of whom four were murderers. But if all the governors of all the states were to fall in line it wouldn't be right.

Miss LIZZIE MORTON, of Madisonville, played a nice trick upon two young gentlemen yesterday. Her marriage to Mr. Joel McPherson was announced for last night, but she had quietly promised to fool McPherson and marry N. L. Holeman. Both young gentlemen showed up suitably, Holeman laughing in his sleeve to think of how he was going to come it over McPherson. The bombshell was exploded in due order. She refused to marry either one of them.—Post.

According to a recent report of the Commissioner of Pensions there are eighty-four widows of soldiers of the Revolutionary War still living and drawing pensions in various parts of the country. All the soldiers have been dead many years, but some of the boys married very young wives, themselves being at a very advanced age which accounts for it all. There are 7,134 survivors of the war of 1812 and 24,661 widows of soldiers of that contest. This number is very rapidly decreasing and before many years, the list will be in the condition of that of the heroes of '76.

SENATOR BECK has started out to hunt down the facts of the Hubbell assessments, by introducing a bill in the Senate to appoint a committee to investigate the matter. Senator Hale offered an amendment embracing an inquiry into the actions of the Democratic National Committee and the amount it had received and from whence they had come. This latter part would seem to be assuming control of a matter which does not come within the power of Congress, as the Democratic Committee could not have obtained money from government employees by threats of dismissal, which is the evil complained of.

The distilling interests of the United States are making a combined effort to have the tax on spirits and malt liquors removed or at least reduced. The Secretary of the Treasury, the Commissioner and the President are known to be against reduction and it is thought that a majority of Congress is against it, consequently the distillers have a very meager show. Numbers of them have recognized this fact and have gone to work to secure the extension of the bonded warehouse period. They claim if they are forced to take their products out of bond at the time required by law that it will financially ruin them, as the stocks on hand are incredibly large, while past sales have been so small that they have not been able to realize enough money to meet the demands of the Government.

It is enough to bring the blush of shame to the cheek of the patriotic Kentuckian to think of the manner in which the Governor of the State has discharged the duties of his office. Many things have been shown up against him, and now comes the cheerful information that about fifty indictments are returned at each sitting of the Grand Jury in Louisville, making about one hundred per year, against the gamblers of the city. Every one of the fifty is tried, convicted and fined on an average $500. No far so good, but when the ex parte per se issues the officer is confronted by a pardon from the Governor, and all the cost to the gambler is the thirty per cent. of the fine which goes to the Commonwealth's Attorney, and which the Governor has no right to remit. There have been five hundred and forty-six lines assessed against Louisville gamblers since Blackburn has been Governor, and only one of the number have been held to account. This is worse than an outrage. It is criminal setting a premium on crime and offering inducements to the vicious to continue in the career. Again we say that every patriotic citizen of the State should blush, unless, forthwith, the blood has been called to his cheek so often that it refuses to mount and a sickening pallor of disgust rises in its stead.

The Tariff Commission Report.

Some of the protection organs recently, or since the November election, converted into champions of tariff revision and reform, are calling on the Democrats to behold the report of the Tariff Commission and note how all the predictions about the report of that body have failed, and how deftly it complies with the popular demand by recommending an average tariff reduction of twenty per cent.

That the Tariff Commission has so reported, and that these protection organs endorse the report and profess to be champions of tariff reform, is manifestly due to the result of the November election. The effect of that election is visible also in Secretary Folger's report, for he is the first Republican Secretary of the Treasury, since McCulloch, who has advocated any reduction in customs duties, especially on such leading articles as iron, steel and cotton manufactures. A few months ago we were assured by the protection organs that the Commission was organized exclusively for the protection of the war tariff; for the careful guarding of the bounties received by manufacturers. The change of tone is due to the urgent necessity of doing something to lift the Republican party out of the pit into which it has fallen, through its own folly, blindness and corruption.

The Tariff Commissioners, in effect, concede and admit that the present tariff is a stupendous swindle and grievous oppression. That is a severe blow to such ultra protectionists as Judge Kelley and the orators of the barons who figured at the two Tariff Conventions held in New York and Chicago. Let the ultras stew in their own juice. The country is against them. A few months ago low-tariff advocates were denounced as enemies of the country for proposing an average reduction of twenty per cent, but the Tariff Commissioners, suddenly perceiving that the country will not submit to the present swindling tariff any longer, now actually propose to cut down the steel rail monopoly's bounty from $25 to $12.50 a ton, to reduce the lar iron duty and duties on the finer iron products to an average of twenty per cent, and the duty on sugar to an average of fifteen per cent. Duties on cotton goods they would reduce twenty-five to thirty per cent; woolen goods from eighteen to forty per cent. They recommend reductions of duties on hoop, band and scroll iron of five, ten and fifteen cents a hundred pounds; reductions from twenty to thirty per cent on iron and steel wire; twenty-three per cent on silk. Wool pulp is put on the free list, as are newspapers and periodicals and many chemicals now subject to a duty of from twenty to thirty per cent. The Tariff Commission has in a great measure adopted Senator Beck's proposition to make an average reduction of twenty per cent, the Commission differ in that they do not carry this reduction through the whole tariff list, but make discriminating suggestions.

The report of the Tariff Commissioners is objected to by the steel and some other monopolies, but it is to be commended in that it knocks cold the former protectionists' assertion that the war tariff is too sacred to touch. The barons' ships, in fact, getting scuttled by the barons' henchmen, who admit now that excessive duties discredit the national economic system, increase the uncertainty of industrial enterprise, destroy the stability of commerce, and that the manufacturing interests in the present period of peace require no extraordinary stimulus.—Courier-Journal.

Which Should Live?
Quite a diversity of opinion seems to exist among the papers comprising the reform brigade in this State. Of course all reform papers are Democratic, but some are reformers but Democrats; but the aforementioned diversity is as wide as if they were organs of the opposing parties. One will vehemently insist on free trade, with the Internal Revenue system on its present basis, while another will declare for free whiskey, free beer and free tobacco and look to the tariff for revenue, even if the rate is so high, as at present, to amount to prohibition. To us, the safe and only practicable ground lies between the two extremes. We do not want free trade nor do we favor the abolition of the revenue system. We are for a reduction of the tariff on everything, and an entire removal on some, in order to benefit the consumers of the country, which class includes every man, woman and child who claims American citizenship. The reduction could be made and no one would suffer unjustly. The manufacturer would be forced to sell his goods from ten to forty per cent cheaper, but a fair margin would still be left for profit and the oppressed consumer would be enabled to buy the necessities of life at a price which he would not deem fabulous as under the old rule. Any man with half an eye can see the vast benefits that would accrue to the masses from a judicious reduction of the present exorbitant tariff, but the same state of case with regard to the Internal Revenue system is not so patent to the general mind. Besides, the articles on which a revenue tax is placed are usually not of prime necessity, while many of them are absolute luxuries. Take the tax off the honest laborer's blanket but let it remain on the drunkard's liquor.

Let us particularize and see the relative burdens imposed by the tariff and the Internal Revenue system. A gallon of whiskey is estimated to contain sixty-four ordinary bar drinks. Whiskey is taxed 90 cents per gallon. This is a little more than seven-tenths of a cent per drink. Remove the tax on whiskey and to the benefit to the consumer? Nowhere. He still pays ten cents across the bar for every drink he gets. The tax removed would go to the barkeeper and would be that much added to the two or three hundred per cent he already makes on the government makes nothing. Then there is the tax on matches. On a five-cent box of matches there is a two-cent stamp. Suppose that were removed. Where is the dealer that would think of selling a box of matches for less than a nickel? Take off the tax and it goes to the dealer in addition to the profit he already makes and with which he is now satisfied. Patent medicines are taxed four cents on the dollar bottle. Remove the tax and what will be the result, as affecting the debilitated reader of advertisements in the county newspaper? Would he get his "Gilt Edge Tonic" or his "Dobbs' Miraculous Rejuvenant" for 90 cents? Not a bottle. The four cents would go, as in other cases, to the already satisfied pocket of the dealer and the sufferer would write his little testimonial to the wonderful efficacy of the medicine without the four cents saved to pay for paper and postage. Now to the tariff. Our report does not give the rate of tariff on articles paying less than $100,000 into the treasury, consequently, those articles on which the tariff is so high as to be prohibitory, are not enumerated. The duty on prints is 33 cents per square yard and 20 per cent ad valorem amounting to 55.05 per cent. The American manufacturer adds a profit approximate but not quite reaching this figure. As a consequence, the consumer pays the profit and the government is not corresponding benefit, but on the other hand, the very man, of all others, who does not need help in this way, gets it. We mean the capitalist. Blankets and cloth, such as is used by the farmer, the mechanic, the laborer is so protected that very small quantities are imported. And so it goes. Down the long line of articles which stand like thieves at every point, crying, give, give, there is no pleasant face which bears on itself the smile of justice to all alike. It is discrimination throughout. Some of the articles of everyday use, which are absolutely necessary, are made to pay 150 per cent; while the luxuries are never made to import more than 10 per cent or 15 per cent of their value to the general government. With these exhibits, we do not see any room for anyone to argue that the Internal Revenue should be abolished and the tariff retained. If either must go, let it be the tariff for surely its benefits to the government are fewer and its burdens on the body of the people greater than the other. A wise Democratic policy is to judiciously revise the tariff and let the revenue system remain where it now is for a time, at least. Too much attempted means nothing done in matters of reform, so Democrats should not lay off more work than they can reasonably expect to accomplish.

A Remarkable Couple.
Living near Blue Knob, in well-preserved couple, "Uncle" Johnnie Hill, aged 96, and his wife, Fannie Hill, aged 97. They have been married nearly 50 years and have lived together in the greatest happiness during this long period of years. Uncle Johnnie is hale and hearty, enjoys the company of young people and although he does not work himself, every morning, he goes out and superintends the feeding of his stock. His wife is very cheerful and bright, superintends her house and does some of it herself. She can read very well without spectacles. "Uncle" Johnnie tells some very interesting incidents connected with his young days, among other things, his trip up the Mississippi from New Orleans on the first steamboat ever on that river. This ancient couple have lived to see their fifth generation and have undoubtedly been married longer than any couple in the state.—Elizabethan News.

An Awful Responsibility.
Everybody has something to say about consumption. We all deplore its terrible ravages, but only a few of us seem to have common sense enough to take the proper means of preventing it. It is as simple as two and two are four that Hale's Honey of Horehound and Tar, taken as a remedy for coughs, colds, difficult breathing, hoarseness, or any other symptoms which pave the way for that terrible destroyer, will effect a radical and rapid cure of the ailment, and avert all danger. Whoever, under these circumstances, neglects to resort to the true specific, assumes a fearful responsibility. Of druggists.

he gets. The tax removed would go to the barkeeper and would be that much added to the two or three hundred per cent he already makes on the government makes nothing. Then there is the tax on matches. On a five-cent box of matches there is a two-cent stamp. Suppose that were removed. Leaves From Sunny Dale.
Dec. 8th, 1882.
Weather cold and business improving.

The farmers are about done gathering corn, there has been more than an average crop raised in this vicinity. Thomas Bean, Esq., has been improving his house by building a new chimney. Thomas means business.

Messrs. Whitehead and McCray, from Owensboro, have finished up their job of work on Mark Renfrow's house; they are the best carpenters of this country.

I congratulate Mr. J. B. London upon his success in the drawing. Miss Mamie Harris, one of Sulphur Springs' most charming belles, paid her sister, Mrs. Henry B. Bean, a visit last Sunday.

The ball given by Mr. Andrew Hines was splendid; the parlor was filled at an early hour and all went merry as a marriage bell; it was the wish of all present that he would give us another in the near future.

The school which has been taught by John Heverin, Esq., for the last three months at this place, closed on the 1st inst. I learn from the patrons that Mr. Heverin has given general satisfaction as a teacher, he has returned to his home (Glendale Farm) near Rosine. We regret very much to lose him from our midst.

Hyman Lawrence, Esq., who has been engaged in business at Horton for the last five months, has returned to his old home at Ford Ambrose's. We are glad to have him with us again.

Deputy Sheriff Keown passed through this part last Friday on his way to town. Sam makes a good deputy.

Thanks to Mrs. Vena Duke and Mr. B. Powers for the nice music they gave us last Thursday night.

Spelling matches are all the go in this vicinity.

M. and B. Woodley are visiting friends and relatives in Butler county, Kentucky.

Success to the Herald and its editor, BONUS PELLA.

Centertown Gossip.

Winter has assumed full control of us and all else, and very likely we'll be glad when it releases its very grasp.

What is the matter with our tobacco buyers? I have heard of no one being around yet. Come, men, we in these parts need your money.

Some of the pumps and pipes at Stroud & Ford's mill burst from freezing during the present cold snap, which caused temporary suspension, but they have already gotten new machinery and will be ready for business in a very few days.

It would seem from the number of commercial travelers calling on Mr. Jones not Jones, as you make me say every time I refer to him in my letters that he must be doing a lively business as their coming and going is of almost daily occurrence.

N. C. Williams, living three miles North of this place, died of consumption on the 3d inst. Mr. Williams was a man of fair business qualities, and will be missed in the community. He leaves a wife and several children who have the sympathy of the entire community.

Rev. Mr. Weaver, the newly elected pastor of Green River Union church, filled his first appointment at that church Saturday and Sunday. He was greeted by a large audience. Mr. Weaver will make them a good pastor, as he is a man of fine pulpit abilities.

Station Saturday to attend the funeral of Mrs. Jas. A. Rowe, which was preached on Sunday by Rev. Dr. Bennett.

In giving an account of Geo. and J. W. Row's experiment with the different fertilizers, you were mistaken in saying that they used the same amount of each kind to the soil. They used a teaspoonful of home-made fertilizer to the soil and a tablespoonful of state dust to the soil and a pint of state manure to the soil. This little mistake only shows that the editors have got farmed once lately.

The protracted meeting will commence at Walton's Creek Thursday next by Revs. J. T. Casheer and Redford Jenkins.

J. T. Bennett spent a few days at home last week, returning to-day to his lodging.

Jacob C. Warden has sold one of his farms of 88 acres to Dr. P. G. Coffman, of McLean county, for three hundred dollars. He will give possession right away.

The Walton's Creek school, under the supervision of Miss Nannie Morton, is moving on smoothly. Miss Nannie never fails of success.

Someone not far from here wants to know what has become of the Gasburg correspondent, and says she thinks he might write often.

I take pleasure in recommending the washing machine sold by Rhodes & Taylor. Mrs. John P. Rowe has one and says she would not be without it for anything reasonable.

I started out this morning to see what the echoes had in store for me. I found nothing. I learned that the echoes had made an assignment and gone West to grow up with the country, and I thought I would let a few lines slide under the above heading.

Last Saturday evening two men, Carter and Jeffries by name, had a difficulty, in which Carter got badly cut up. The physicians were called and attended to the wounded man, who is being properly taken care of by old Mr. Neighbors, who stays by him day and night. Jeffries was promptly arrested and taken to Calhoun and placed in jail to await his trial. Jeffries is a hard lot. It is said he effected his escape from the Henderson county jail a year or two ago. The jailer of McLean county will need to keep his eyes open.

Mr. R. H. Arkenburgh has brought his cattle from Canisville and is feeding them. He has built sheds to be a protection against the weather.

What has become of the dancing people? Are they dead or asleep? Echo answers neither. They are waiting for another Turkey to come stalking in.

The outside work of the new church is about done, and all it lacks inside is the plastering which will be done as soon as the weather will permit, then we will have a church par excellence.

An outside front view causes the observer to think he is away from home. The Livermore theatrical talent has returned from Morgantown where they had been to help the Morgantown people.

ple out with an exhibition they had on hand.

The Rev. Bennett preached a good sermon last Sunday. There were more children than grown people present so he preached to the children.

The present cold snap is disastrous to the mills, bursting the pipes and every thing else holding water. One little valve being frozen on yesterday delayed three trains and the steamboat.

Last Wednesday night about 12 o'clock Livermore was shocked from center to circumference, the earth trembled as when heavy thunder is rolling in the heavens. Those who were awakened by the report jumped from their beds to learn the cause. The building known as the Howard store house was discovered to be in flames. The building was occupied by Wm. Pritchard as a store and dwelling combined. The report was caused by the explosion of a keg of powder in the store-room. Mr. Pritchard and wife, she with their only child and he with a trunk had barely got a safe distance from the house when the explosion occurred. The sides of the house were blown out like a piece of paper in a storm, the roof came down on the floor with a crash where all was consumed. The entire stock of goods were burned. The only article saved was the trunk mentioned above. Several of the buildings in the immediate vicinity came near burning. One side of Gilliam Bro's store was scorched as black as my hat, the two buildings being less than 50 feet apart. The National Hotel barely escaped. It was thought for awhile it would burn, but a judicious use of water saved it. It is not known how the fire originated.
